Jason: I am disheartened by my experience in attending your meeting tonight. I find it unjust that in raising my hand you opted to put me on notice after validating that I had a question. Did you vet others who raised their hand in the same fashion? More striking is that my comment to you in chat about having captured your comments triggered you to take action to remove me from the meeting. I'm having a hard time tonight finding equity in the treatment by the HVNA .
